OPP used 12-year-old girl as bait

TORONTO – February 1, 2010 –

Back in 2004 OPP officers – of the same organization whose chief recently threatened Haldimand Council into submission when lawless Natives beat a Canadian into a coma in Caledonia – deliberately abandoned a crying 12-year-old girl in a public place so they could use her as bait to arrest her parents for a PAPER CRIME.

Her father had traveled across Canada for over a YEAR, peacefully trying to be arrested so he could challenge an unjust, unconstitutional feel-good law that created a billion dollar boondoggle now ridiculed the world over as an example of government waste and mismanagement.

After arresting both parents the OPP officers refused to show they had a search warrant. Yet while the father sat in solitary confinement in jail, OPP threatened to bulldoze the home he'd built unless he told them where his legally owned firearms were stored.

Then the Liberal Attorney General -- the same lawyer who admitted killing a cyclist with his car and then hired an expensive public relations firm to dig up dirt on his victim --- used a vague untested law to STEAL the family's home... BEFORE the trial... not even bothering to wait for a conviction.

These power mad people are trampling one person who dared to stand up.

If they trample him... YOU may be next.

Canada's current licensing scheme contravenes our constitutionally guaranteed right to possess firearms. This charter challenge is designed to protect that right to peacefully own and use our firearms – without arbitrary paperwork.

Expose the sniveling... conniving... unnecessary evil tactics like using a young girl as "bait" that government workers have used to ensnare an innocent family accused only of a paper crime.
